Dear Laura Cruz:

Congratulations! Your proposal "A Picture is Worth 1000 Words: Integrating Photo Narration into Your SoTL Practice" in the format in which it was submitted for the ISSOTL23 conference from November 8-11, 2023, in Utrecht, the Netherlands. Instructions for presenting your abstract can be found here.

Priority Registration

We are thrilled with the huge interest in the conference. However, this also presents us with a challenge because of the limited number of spaces at the venue "Het Spoorwegmuseum". We don't want people who are accepted to present at the conference to be left out on signing up. We have made the decision to give priority registration for ISSOTL23 to accepted presenters. The registration early-bird discounts, found here is currently live. Please register by May 14th as the link will be shared with the public.

Hotel Bookings

We have secured conference rates at several hotels and encourage all registered participants to book their accommodation for the conference. Booking links may be found here on the ISSOTL23 website.

Please do not hesitate to contact us at issotl23@issotl.com with any questions.

We look forward to seeing you in Utrecht!

Kind regards,
Irma Meijerman and Manon Kluijtmans (Co-chairs ISSOTL23)

Dear Jacob

We are pleased to inform you that you have been selected to be part of the following ISSOTL 2023 International Collaborative Writing Group (ICWG) – Academic track:

Topic: SoTL as Inclusive Transdisciplinary Practice

Group Facilitators/Leaders: Sara Nasrollahian Mojarad (University of Iowa) & Anna Santucci (University College Cork)

There were far more applicants than positions available, so please confirm at this point that you are committed to participation, which includes the time and cost commitments listed below. Please send us your response with commitment to the following no later than midnight Pacific Time on Wednesday the 19th of April, 2023. If we don't hear from you by this deadline, we will assume you cannot commit and open your position to another applicant.

Commitments:

- Current, dues-paid membership in ISSOTL
- Travel and accommodation for 2.5 days of face-to-face ICWG work in Utrecht, The Netherlands. This involves face-to-face/in-person working session starting 1pm on Sunday November 5th – Tuesday November 7th, immediately prior to the ISSOTL23 conference in Utrecht, The Netherlands (November 8th -11th, 2023). Before and after the conference, the groups will work together online to ultimately produce a public SoTL artifact no later than October 2024.
- Remote collaborative work in the months both before and after this hands-on workshop in Utrecht (April 2023 through October 2024)
- Please note costs are approximate at the moment in USD and may be subject to slight changes:
 - Payment of ICWG registration by the end of June (in 2022 this was $375 for non-students, and $200 for students). ICWG registration will include dinner on Sunday, snacks and lunches on Monday and Tuesday, along with some other social activities.
 - Payment of registration for ISSOTL (in 2022 Early Bird Regular Member Registration cost ~$500, and included snacks during breaks, 2 lunches, and a poster reception with snacks and one drink.

In the past, there have been a handful of small ICWG travel subsidies (max $300) available based on need. We are hoping that something similar will be available this year. We will share a link with you once we know if it's available. At present, we are also in discussions with the ISSOTL board to consider an Emerging Scholars Fund that could be used to waive ISSOTL registration fees. We will update you further once we have confirmation that this fund is available for the ICWG and Conference. However, if you have an extenuating circumstance that prevents you from attending the full ISSOTL conference following the ICWG meeting, please let us know.

We are excited about the communities and SoTL academic articles that will be developed in this coming year, and we look forward to working with you along the way.

Please send your commitment to participation to:
