

Step 7. Instructional Strategy

An instructional strategy is a set of learning activities, arranged in a particular sequence so that the energy for learning increases and accumulates as students go through the sequence. This usually requires:

(a) Activities that get the students ready or prepared for later work:

In Class Introduction Activity	Out of Class Introduction Activity
1.
2.

(b) Activities that give them opportunities to practice—with prompt feedback—doing whatever it is you want them to learn to do:

In Class Practice Activity	Out of Class Practice Activity
1.
2.

(c) Activities that assess the quality of their performance:

In Class Assessment Activity	Out of Class Assessment Activity
1.
2.

(d) Activities that allow them to reflect on their learning.

In Class Reflection Activity	Out of Class Reflection Activity
1.
2.	