

The Weagle Worker Expectations

Being a Weagle Worker is a big deal.

- As a Weagle Worker, you represent the university. You're a partner with faculty, staff, and other student workers.
- The people you provide service to, such as other students, parents, visitors, faculty, staff, and co-workers all depend on you to do the very best job you can every day.
- The skills and experience you gain will transfer to future employment settings, no matter what your position is.
- Your employer, Auburn University, has a vested interest in your success. Your supervisor and others around you can offer valuable resources to help you do your job. Take advantage of these resources and never hesitate to ask a question.
- Auburn University considers Weagle Workers vital to the success of the university.
